Mexico City Menaced on Two Sides—Capital's Garrison is of Doubtful Loyalty

CRACK TROOPS SENT TO OAXACA TO FIGHT REBELS

Fight Expected at Geronimo—Gen. Villa Executes Guzman, Agent of Diaz

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3.—American Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy today received instructions from Secretary of State Bryan to notify Americans and foreigners of President Wilson's determination to lift the embargo on arms and ammunition on the international border. Many Americans prepared to leave immediately and it is believed the night train to Vera Cruz will be crowded with fleeing foreigners.

This action on the part of the President will lift the last barrier against the rebels securing the munitions of war and prosecuting an attack on the capital.

HUERTA IN HARD CASE—FOES AT HOME AND IN THE FIELD (By United Press Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3.—General Huerta's overthrow is believed to be hourly nearer. Good judges believe the rebels will be within the city in a few days. They are menacing the city from both the east and north. The garrison here is doubtful in loyalty. Huerta is said to realize his position. It is believed that in case of extremity he will accept Charge O'Shaughnessy's offer of an asylum in the American embassy.

The picked Fifth Regiment, flower of the federal force, is hurrying to Oaxaca to combat the victorious rebels there. A battle is also expected at San Geronimo. If the rebels should win there and at Torreon the capital would be at their mercy.

VILLA SAYS TIME NOT RIPE TO ATTACK MONTEREY OR TORREON

JUAREZ, Mexico, Feb. 3.—General Villa, replying to reports that he plans an immediate attack on Monterrey instead of Torreon, said that he would be guided by circumstances. He said that he does not consider the time ripe, however, for a move on either place. Reports are persistent here that Villa has received $50,000 in gold as taxes and royalties from a big American company, the name of which is withheld.

General Villa today failed to show the slightest compunction over the death of Francisco Guzman, whom he had shot yesterday. He declared Guzman was a spy and a traitor. He came here to confer as a representative of Felix Diaz.

RUMORED STEAM ROAD ALONG HILLS

Believed Santa Fe Contemplates Circling from Olive to Mvford

FRUIT PRODUCTION IS REASON GIVEN

Investigation Concerning District Leads to the Speculation

There is some talk going the rounds that the Santa Fe expects to build a road from Olive through Villa Park, El Modena, Lemon Heights to Irvine.

There has been no official sanction to the rumor, but that such a thing would be feasible needs no imagination.

At present the citrus fruit crops of those sections go forth largely over the Southern Pacific, which has a branch, known as the Tustin branch, with stations at Villa Park, McPherson, El Modena and Tustin. Those sections ship large quantities of fruit every year, and ship it some years when other sections of Southern California ship little. All along the foothills there has been a wonderful development, and in a few years hundreds of acres of new groves will be in bearing.

It is known that recently representatives of the Santa Fe were at the courthouse making careful inquiry into the acreage and production of the foothill sections from Olive to the San Joaquin ranch east of Tustin. That inquiry was minute, and concerned largely the number of new orchards planted.

It is presumed that should the Santa Fe build it will keep to the north and east of the Southern Pacific branch line. A right-of-way through that country will probably cost a mint of money, but the Santa Fe will either have to build or forego the handling of the output of those productive sections.

The Santa Fe's line now runs south from Olive to Santa Ana, then south-east to Irvine, on the main line to San Diego. The contemplated road would go eastward from Olive, then southwest from Villa Park.

50,000 WOMEN SAID TO BE REGISTERED AT NOON

Rush of Working Women Expected Late in Day—Comforts Provided in Booths

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—The women of Chicago registered heavily today for the upcoming primaries on Feb. 24. Many wealthy women used their automobiles in getting women to registration places. Trained nurses were provided to care for the babies.

Volunteers from the Y.W.C.A. watched for fraudulent registrations in the first ward, "Bath House John" Coughlin's district. They had their hands full as the lodging house crowds flocked to register. Women from the red light district were numerous about the registration places but few of them registered.

50,000 Women Register

Refreshments are being served in many of the registration booths, where rugs on the floor and rocking chairs have been provided. Coffee was provided for all who wished. Many of the booths are in pool halls of barber shops.

Many of the women refused to register when told they must state their ages. No questions were asked, however, and several grey-haired women registered as 22.

Col. Goethals, Named by Wilson As Governor of the Canal Zone

There was national, almost international, interest in the question whether Colonel Goethals, the man who has built the Panama Canal, would quit his work there or refuse to accept the governorship of the Canal zone to become police commissioner of New York City, the latter position being proffered and urged upon Goethals by Mayor Mitchell. The question was happily answered for the nation by the acceptance of the governorship of the Panama Canal zone, offered almost immediately by President Wilson after Mitchell's endeavor to secure the services of the gallant soldier and canal builder for New York City.

Col. Goethals had tentatively accepted the New York police commissioner's position, the conditions being that he be given power to remove policemen at will, without review by the courts of the state, and that President Wilson would retire him at the end of his work as chief engineer of the Panama Canal.

$12,000,000 TAX ZAMOR WINS IN ASSESSED ON JOHN D. BIG BATTLE IN HAYTI

Cleveland Commission Bases Will March Troops Forward to Tax on $900,000,000 Valuation—Fight Expected Capital—Trouble is Expected There

Deputy Collectors Fackler and Agnew called at Forest Hill at noon and Rockefeller refused to see them. They left notice of the assessment in writing. Rockefeller was given five days in which to pay, but it is generally believed he will find legal means for delay and will then fight the assessment in court.

HOUSE DOWNS EXCLUSION POLICY

Hayes Amendment Knocked Out in Vote of 203 to 54—Party Lines Obliterated

RAKER'S ANTI-JAPANESE CLAUSE LOSES, 182 TO 6

Leaders in Both Parties Plead Against Complicating the Japanese Situation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—By a vote of 203 to 54 the house today refused to make any declaration on the Asiatic exclusion policy aimed at Japan. This stand was taken on the Hayes amendment to the Burnett-Dillingham immigration bill, which was defeated despite the fact that its teeth were drawn in a modification introduced last night by Lenroot of Wisconsin. Party lines were disregarded in the vote.

True to his promise, Representative Raker of California introduced his anti-Japanese amendment as a substitute to the Hayes amendment. It was defeated by a vote of 182 to 6. House leaders now believe the Burnett-Dillingham bill will be rushed through. A vote on the literacy test is expected tonight.

In the debate today leaders in both parties pleaded against embarrassing the President and secretary of state in their negotiations with Japan. Representative Mann appealed to the patriotism of the congressmen, saying the passage of the Asiatic exclusion amendment would inject further difficulties into an "already delicate Japanese situation."

Burnett argued that all of the Japanese question could be settled by negotiations conducted by the Secretary of State. He said: "If not, the committee can then report out a bill which will, I think Mr. Hayes of California is trying to make cheap political capital through his amendment." Hayes resented this hotly. Gardner of Massachusetts said that language already in the bill for the exclusion of laborers ineligible to naturalization was opposed by the state department and by foreign countries to which it had been submitted. He declared everyone desired the exclusion of Asiatics. Harrison of Mississippi said he feared the amendment would create distress and anger a friendly nation. Moore of Pennsylvania declared, "The Japanese war is being fought principally in the headlines of California newspapers. Bryan is opposed to the Raker bill. He does not want to declare war upon Japan at the instance of California papers. These amendments would embarrass the administration and certainly be resented by Japan."

Mann of Illinois said: "We should reject the amendments as the task of dealing with foreign nations is a delicate one. If the state department can not eradicate existing difficulties by negotiation it will then be time for congress to act. I am not prepared to invite war with Japan or any country. Now is the time to keep cool."

Mann praised Hayes, adding: "We ought to protect California against herself." This brought general applause.

Representative Langley declared that "if the amendment would embarrass the administration we should reject it. But I am weary of side-stepping the Japanese question. I have no fear of war with Japan. For one thing, Japan is bankrupt."

CURTIS INTERESTED IN TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Glenn Curtis, while here in the interest of his flying boat, told the United Press correspondent that he considered it extremely probable that the Atlantic would be crossed by an aeroplane in the course of the next summer. He knows of several who are preparing for the attempt.

Pressed for details Curtis admitted that he personally is interested in one attempt to be made and that he has been asked to supply the engine for the machine of another aviator, who, he says, has splendid chances of success. He personally favors landing in the water en route and taking supplies from a liner, though the other person proposes to make a non-stop flight from shore to shore in thirty-six hours.

It is understood that at least three French aeroplane builders are preparing for the conquest of the Atlantic, but they are keeping their plans dark. Both Garros and Pegoud say it is perfectly feasible to cross the ocean in an aeroplane, but Garros says a modified type of machine will be necessary, none of the existing models being capable of the job.

The regular meeting of the Santa Ana Auto Club will be held Wednesday evening at the City Hall at 7:30 p. m. Clyde Walker, Secretary.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat and Take Salts
for Backache or Bladder Trouble

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

SPEED KILLER COP TURNS IN FINAL REPORT

Davenport and Ballard No Longer on Job—Doings of
City Trustees

To the city trustees last night, Motorcycle Officers Roy Davenport and Roy Ballard made their final report. Their employment by the city ended yesterday, and by the talk at the meeting last night there is little doubt but that the city has finally decided no longer to employ speed cops. When Davenport was put on it was with the expectation that his salary would more than be paid by the fines collected. Several months ago a second speeder catcher was thought advisable, and Ballard was added. Both officers have been used as regular officers in many cases other than those involving infractions of the speed laws.

By the report last night it is shown that since Davenport went on the force he has made 496 arrests, of which 150 were for speeding automobiles, 71 for speeding motorcycles, 28 for allowing mufflers to be open, 103 for vags. From his arrests $2,057 was collected in fines, and the expenses, including Davenport's salary, came to $1,500. Ballard made 195 arrests, of which 45 were speeding automobile cases, 10 speeding motorcycle, 16 muffler open and 109 vagrants. Fines from his arrests came to $625 and the expenses were $650.

The reason the city has discontinued the employment of motorcycle officers is that fines collected for infractions of speed laws under the new law go to the county instead of to the city.

House Mover Troubles
The street committee was instructed to investigate damage done by a house mover on North Broadway. The house was not taken over the route laid out by the city clerk when the permit was issued.

The clerk was instructed to notify three property owners on Chestnut avenue between Flower and Shelton for sidewalk walks, else Vrooman Act proceedings will be immediately invoked.

Trustees Alderman and Grubb and Water Superintendent Reid were named a committee to investigate the advisability of establishing a road oil storage tank on the Santa Fe tracks.

Deeds Received
Alderman reported that the deeds for West Ninth street had been secured and on his motion the action ordering a condemnation suit was rescinded.

Mr. Jacobs of North Broadway asked to have a S.A.V.I. Co. ditch moved from where he wants to lay a sidewalk. He said he would give a right-of-way for a pipeline on his own property. Grubb moved that the ditch be ordered off the city street. Carried.

John Carley was given permission to remove a tree on Myrtle avenue near Chestnut.

Three Alleys, Three Orders
Miss Levenson asked to have moved some fences in an alley west of Flower between First and Walnut. The street superintendent was instructed to clear the alley at once.

Grubb reported that Mrs. Frank True in regard to moving a barn off an alley near the corner of Eighth and Main, says that their household goods are stored in the barn and they would like time before being compelled to move the structure. The city attorney said Mr. True had had months of time to obey the orders of the board, and he objected to giving longer time. Grubb said that there is no obstruction to traffic. He suggested waiting ninety days. Heathman said he favored waiting not over nine hours. Ey said it was all nonsense to wait, the barn could be moved in an hour. Grubb moved that ninety days be given. Alderman, Greenleaf and Grubb voted aye, McPhee and Ey no. McPhee said all should be treated alike.

B. Smith asked that the alley from Bonta to Shelton between First and Walnut be cleared of barns, chicken coops, fences and garages that have been built on it or into it. The matter was referred for investigation to Grubb, Alderman and Finley.

Taylor's Cannery asked for an extension of a fire main at its expense so that there will be a fire hydrant at the cannery. The request was granted.

Will Cost Plenty
For building a large number of sidewalks under the Vrooman Act, H. E. Smith bid 11½ cents per square foot and thirty cents per linear foot for curb. That was the only bid. The price is high because the specifications of the city call for a far better job than is usual. McPhee moved the acceptance of the bid. The proceedings concern numerous strips of sidewalk all over town ordered down but never laid by the property owners when given a chance by private contract. The motion, requiring a three-fourths vote was lost, Greenleaf and Grubb voting no. Grubb moved to reconsider, after discussion, and on a second vote the motion carried, Greenleaf only voting no.

"My reason for changing is that unless we proceed on this bid, all our works will have been for nothing and our efforts in the future along this line would be useless," said Grubb.

The sum of $666.43 was ordered turned over to the Chamber of Commerce, that being the amount raised under the levy voted by the people, and the same amount, less about $50 already drawn, was about to be turned over to the Park Commission when it was brought out that the transfer need not be made in order to allow the commission full swing in the spending of the money.

MISS SALISBURY, BELOVED OF OMAR KHAYYAM

Miss Jane Salisbury, a moving picture actress, who gained fame in that work, has become the beloved of Omar Khayyam on the stage. Richard W. Tully, a young author who aims at something more than an exhibition of legs to a little catchy music, has succeeded in placing Omar Khayyam on the stage with some semblance of reality.

Miss Salisbury is here dressed in the part of Shireen, whom Omar loved most, perhaps even more than his little brown jug.

She has dark hair and a general Oriental cast, which make it possible for her to play the part of the Persian woman with little make-up.

Miss Salisbury is "Thou" in the famous quotation: "A book of verses underneath the bough,

A jug of wine, a loaf of bread— and thou

Beside me singing in the wilderness—

Oh, wilderness were paradise enow!"

BUSY BUENOS AIRES HAS COMPLETED FIRST SUBWAY IN ALL OF SOUTH AMERICA

Buenos Aires has completed the first section of its new subway and it was opened to public service December 1, 1913. That underground transit has become a necessity to relieve the congestion of traffic accentuates the fact that the Argentine capital is the "hurry-up" city of South America. Its growth during the ten-year period closing with 1912 is remarkable.

In 1903 the population was 985,381, there were 4,851 carriages and automobiles, and the street cars, or trams—as the English-Argentines call them—carried 133,719,298 fares during the year; in 1908 the population had increased to 1,189,180, the carriages and automobiles to 6,586, and the passengers carried by the trams to 255,073,896; by 1912 the population amounted to 1,457,885, the carriages and automobiles to 13,649, and the trams struggling with 497,252,540 passengers.

When the surface cars were no longer able to handle the traffic satisfactorily the Anglo-Argentine Company, an English corporation which owned most of them, decided in 1910 to ask for a franchise to install a subway system, and it is the first section of this which was opened to traffic recently. According to an article in the January "Bulletin of the Pan-American Union," this section runs from the Government building on Plaza Mayo at one terminus, underneath the main thoroughfare—the splendid Avenida de Mayo—to and around the foundations of the new capitol, and to the Plaza Once de Septiembre, a total distance of about two miles. Formerly the shortest time to make the trip, owing to the congested condition of traffic, was 30 minutes. By the subway it now takes less than one-third of that time, and "time is money" in Buenos Aires just as it is in New York.

The subway is double tracked and equipped with cars of the latest pattern and every modern convenience. One new feature introduced is that each station has a distinct color scheme, different from the others. For example, the first station on the Avenida is painted sky-blue, the second is yellow, the third green, etc. Soon the distinctive colors will become familiar to the patrons and if a passenger fails to read the large signs he can still tell where he is by the color of the stopping place. The gauge of the road is five feet six inches and the cars accommodate 40 passengers each. A third rail system has also been installed, so that in case of emergency the company can use some of its surface cars in the subway. In other words, the new subway is up-to-the-minute in every particular, and when the other sections are added the Argentine capital will have an underground transit system costing something over $30,000,000, which, taking into consideration the distance covered, will be equal to that of any city in the world.

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely, dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone! End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Advertisement.

committee had turned the matter over to G. W. Minter and C. A. Riggs to interview property owners, and a petition will be prepared by the city attorney tomorrow. The paving will conform to the county highway, which this paving will join.

Alderman moved that the property owners be given until Feb. 16 to say what they will do, the city proposing to pay for half. Hitherto it has been impossible to get an expression from the property owners.

Ey said he favored letting them know that if they do not accept some terms, the city will use the Vrooman Act.

Alderman said he did not like that method of approaching the people. Grubb stated East Fourth ought to be crowned, as it is now rough east of the tracks. McPhee said the attorney for Crandall said his company would bid for the paving, and talked of getting another outfit here to do other paving. It was shown that bids for paving can be taken March 3, so the street will be left as it is until paved.

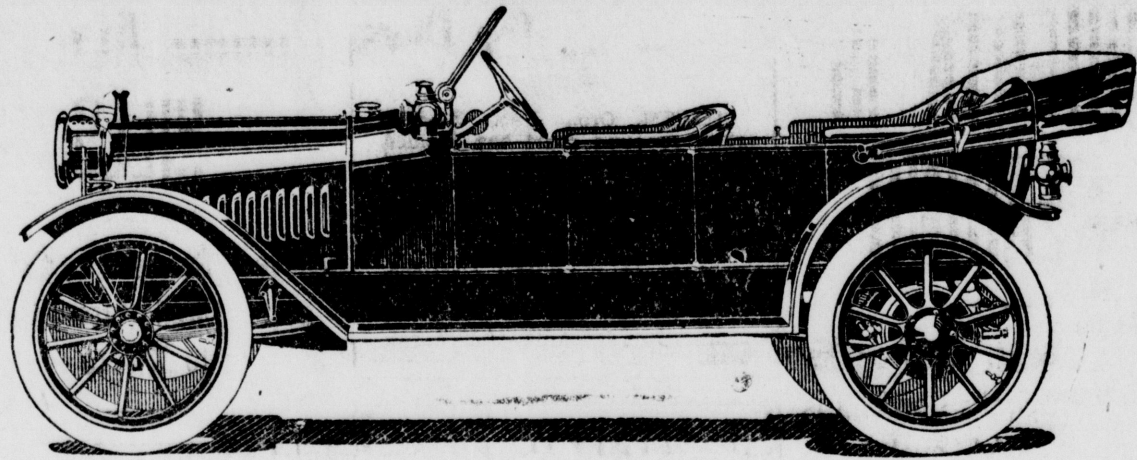

McPhee said a man named Carter had "squatted" on the corner of Second and French on lots owned by a Kentuckian. Ey said the man had promised him to move and then the deputy health officer had spoiled it all by telling the man not to move to another lot where there is also no sewer. Grubb said the lots are private property and it is not up to the city to see that the man moves. Heathman said the place of residence, even a tent, should be connected with the sewer, and that is how the deputy health officer took authority. The matter was referred to the health officer.

The city attorney was given a leave of absence for a week. He is going to his White Water ranch.

GIVE REASONS FOR IMPROVING THE OLD GRADE

Delegation Argues for Longer Route With Fewer Grades

This afternoon a delegation composed largely of residents of the Villa Park section addressed the Board of Supervisors upon the advisability of selecting the north road to the County Park for improvement by paving. The supervisors stated that the question need not be decided at this time as by the present plans the county can pave only a mile of road, that from McPherson to El Modena, and the selection of the route from El Modena to the County Park need not be made until the time comes when more paving can be done.

J. L. Wheeler, L. F. Thurston of Villa Park, R. Y. Williams and H. McPhee of Santa Ana presented arguments in favor of selecting a route leading north from El Modena by what is known as the "old road," the "creek road" or the "canyon road." They said that the old road is favored by residents of the north end of the county and by the people of the Orange, El Modena and Villa Park section in preference to the grade over the hills east of El Modena, that it would be of use daily as well as for pleasure.

Supervisor Leck said he favored the grade road for improvement by paving rather than the creek road, as it will not be long before Tustin people going to the County Park can use a new road to join the grade road at the foot of the grade.

The supervisors promised to give the matter full consideration and to go over both routes carefully before deciding, but that for the present no decision need be reached as neither road can be improved north or east of El Modena.

Detention Home
L. H. Hill, superintendent of the Detention Home, submitted a report showing the cost of maintaining the institution for January. The cost was $223.69, of which $75 was for salary, $63.48 for groceries, $22.12 for clothing and $6.90 for meat.

The $12,000 bonds of the Bay City school district were ordered advertised for sale on Feb. 17.

Supervisor Leck was given permission to buy a new road grader for the fifth supervisory district.

GIRLS! STOP WASHING THE HAIR WITH SOAP

Soap Dries Your Scalp, Causing Dandruff, Then Hair Falls Out

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanser." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.—Advertisement.

Sutton Is Marshal

Orange News: Herbert V. Sutton, newly appointed city marshal, took up the burden of his duties yesterday, succeeding Henry S. Warren, who steps into the position of fire truck driver, which was recently created.

The above mentioned burden has been very light so far, and the new marshal has had no occasion to use his authority. There is no question in the minds of his friends, however, but what Sutton will be "right there" when the time comes, and all look for efficient service during his administration as peace officer. He apparently measures up to all the requirements of a good officer.

NEWSY NEWS FROM NEW YORK

By Carlton Ten Eyck

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—This town happens to be New York, the metropolis of the western hemisphere, the second largest city in the world, supposedly a center of art, learning, society, culture and wealth, but one would have a hard time convincing Alkali Ike, Plute Pete, Cheyenne Charley and others of the frontier gentry that a recital of the nightly doing in this man's town were the chronicles of civilization.

The other night a big black touring car dashed at breakneck speed down Eighth avenue among the 130's. In it were two young girls and they stood up in the swaying car, yelling for help.

"For God's sake rescue us," a passer-by heard one of the girls say. A policeman on his "peg post" heard the screams, and stood in the middle of the street, signaling with his white gauntleted hand for the chauffeur to stop. The wig-wag of the policeman's hand usually stops automobiles. But it did not this one. The chauffeur swerved his on-rushing car in an endeavor to run down the minion of the law. His murderous onslaught was so nearly effective that the policeman was hurled into an iron pillar and seriously hurt, but he managed to fire a shot at the fleeing automobile in a vain effort to puncture a tire.

Another policeman a block away heard the shot, and planted himself in the street to intercept the piratical black automobile with its passengers. The chauffeur tried to run him down, too, but the policeman leaped aside and managed to get a foothold on the footboard of the racing car. A sharp swerve that all but sent the flying vehicle into the curb, shook off the policeman and sent him sprawling. He managed to fire two shots at the car, but missed.

Commandeering a taxicab, the second policeman set off in pursuit of the black automobile, firing six or eight times at its tires. Other policemen, hearing the shots, tried to stop the car and almost lost their lives for their pains. As the flying juggernaut flashed into fashionable St. Nicholas avenue, every policeman who saw it fired at the tires, and many citizens, hearing the hub-bub, turned out and tried to head off the automobile. The car, though, distanced all pursuers, dodged all bullets and disappeared into the night. All this happened in the heart of New York's residential district before 9 o'clock at night. The unidentified girls, doubtless white slave victims, were completely swallowed up.

The gunmen of New York are no less picturesque in their carrying-on "Dopey Benny" Fein, head of the East Side band of brigands shot a policeman. He was arrested and put on trial before a jury of unidentified men. To induce citizens to serve on the gangster jury, it was necessary to assure them their names would never be known to any but the deputy sheriffs who drew and summoned them. "Dopey Benny" did not know the name of one of his "peers" who found him guilty and sent him to Sing Sing for twenty-one years on the double charge of assault and violating the Sullivan law, which prohibits citizens from having deadly weapons in their possession.

Immediately on learning of "Dopey Benny's" conviction, his gangsters set about their campaign of reprisal. A rival gunman was shot to death the very same night in a Bowery saloon known as "The Tub of Blood." The place was invaded while three women were in the rear room and the women saw the death duel.

The next night gunmen invaded another saloon. This time they were not after any rivals but they needed money to carry on their operations. Before the eyes of his little girl the gangsters beat the saloon man into insensibility, drove his customers to the street and escaped with $50 from the register. A block away they held up another saloon at the pistol's point, but were forced to flee by the gathering crowd before they obtained any money. Four were captured.

Such things are nightly occurrences in New York and they are by no means confined to out-lying and isolated districts. Three desperadoes invaded a West Side saloon the other night, in a district which is colloquially known as "Hell's Half Acre," though it is only a stone's throw from Longacre Square and the Great White Way, and shot down the porter of the place because the bartender refused to serve them drinks. A fusillade of shots kept back the gathering crowd until the gangsters escaped in a taxicab.

It was the spectacular killing of Herman Rosenthal and the subsequent happenings that brought the New York gunmen into the limelight and made them ever-ready characters for drama and fiction, but the Rosenthal murder was nothing new. The limelight for publicity merely served to call the public's attention to a state of affairs that has existed in the greater city for many years. Recently the new city administration has made an effort to drive out the gangsters and the police have been instructed to use their clubs freely on gunmen wherever found. Arrest and conviction of the East Side "bad man" so far has accomplished nothing, apparently, but the starting of campaigns of revenge and fresh feuds.

CITRUS BY-PRODUCTS

That great interest is being taken in the question of citrus by-product manufacture in California—that the series of articles which have been published in this paper have indeed been timely,—has been fully proven by the plants being started around the citrus belt. The new plant at Covina, followed by the new organization at Pomona, both to handle orange culls primarily, followed now by the location of a lemon product plant in Santa Ana by the International Food Products Co. of Boston, with the plants already organized and running at Redlands, Riverside and elsewhere, all tend to show in a very practical manner the importance of the new industry.

The near future is to see big strides made in the citrus by-product industry in California, particularly in the manufacture of orange products, where a reasonable price will produce immense quantities of material. The quantity of lemon culls available for the next couple of seasons does not promise to be very great, from the fact that the coming crop does not seem likely to be a very heavy one.

The establishment of these plants, however, by providing an outlet for cull and low grade fruit, promises to have a far reaching influence on the citrus industry as a whole.

By-products factories in Sicily pay for their material, lemons, about $100 per 100,000 lemons, approximately a California carload. The total of this material is at least one-third of the total crop.

POINT IS WELL TAKEN

(Riverside Press.)

One fact was brought out in the discussions here over the employers' liability act the last few days, which may well be strongly emphasized. The employer had been liable for damage in case of accident to an employee in this state ever since the commonwealth was formed. Under the provisions of the common law, the employee (or his dependent relatives) had the right to sue and might obtain damages far in excess of the maximum amount that can be granted under the new law. The principle of compensation, therefore, is not a new one; and the various suits against the Riverside Portland Cement Company in the courts of Riverside, under the old common law provisions, should have reminded the people of this county that the workman had his redress in the event of accident in an industrial plant before the new law was ever talked of.

The trouble with the old system was that the matters at issue were only determined after litigation, which might be long and expensive for both sides and the final decision might be unjust, either to the employer or the workman, according as the sympathy of the jury might lean one way or the other. Verdicts have been given against employers that were undoubtedly excessive; and on the other hand, verdicts have been rendered which deprived the injured workman (or his family in case of death) of the sum to which he was justly entitled. The lawyers reaped the richest harvest under that system and the element of uncertainty as to the result made the situation unsatisfactory, both to capital and labor.

The advantage of the present compensation act is that the amount which can be awarded is definitely known for every class of accidents and the settlement is made without the delay and expense of litigation. The workman can rest assured that his rights will be fully protected; and the employer knows that he is safeguarded against any "cliché" verdicts for damages and that for a moderate cost he can insure himself against all liability.

Practically the same law as California has adopted has been thoroughly tested in other states—including Massachusetts in the east and Wisconsin in the west—and Ohio and New York are two large manufacturing states which have just adopted laws along exactly the same line. The compensation plan is coming to be recognized as the only just and satisfactory method of dealing with the problem of industrial accidents; and California has simply put herself in line with other states in the union and with the leading countries of Europe. There is nothing extreme or revolutionary about this law and the Los Angeles Times is about the only paper in the state to attack the law and its administration. That attack is purely political and is not inspired by any real interest in the workman or the employer.

EVERYBODY FOR JOHNSON

The San Francisco papers—including even the reactionary Argonaut—are quite lavish in their praise of the state railroad commission just now because it has opposed the "unmerging" of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific lines in California. It does not, however, seem to occur to these papers that they are really paying a tribute to the Johnson administration in this matter. Though Johnson was elected on the anti-railroad issue, the railroad commission which he appointed, has been so able, so sensible and so fair in dealing with corporations that the reactionary papers are quoting its decisions as better authority on railroad control than the views of Attorney General McReynolds, who is presumably speaking for President Wilson—Riverside Press.

SAN DIEGO WOMAN CURED HER RHEUMATISM

—Mrs. Goetz of 318 Timken Building, San Diego, cured her rheumatism and stomach trouble by using "Sulfo-bath" and "Syrup of Sulphur." She writes: "For years I have suffered greatly from Rheumatism, and on numerous occasions been confined to my bed. I could get no relief until my son brought home a bottle of 'Sulfo-bath' and now after taking your treatment for only one month the pains have left me and I am entirely cured and am once more able to resume my duties." ## THE CITRUS FRUIT INDUSTRY

Department of Service to Citrus Fruit Growers, Conducted Especially for the Register.

Copyrighted by Reginald Brinsmead.

THE TREND TOWARD SMALL HOLDINGS

The day of the small holding in California has undoubtedly arrived, and arrived to become a most important factor in the development of the country. This is especially true of the citrus district, where even more intensive farming than that already practiced by the citrus fruit grower will, in many instances, have a tendency to reduce the size of the ten acre holding, hitherto considered the unit of subdivision in the orange and lemon growing sections.

The factors tending rapidly to bring about these conditions are not all of great apparent significance or importance in themselves, but combined they must ultimately exert an irresistible influence in this direction. The influx, through the Panama canal, of an industrious and thrifty population; the better understanding of the possibilities and meaning of intensive farming; the rapid increase of what may be termed the "native" population; the widening of markets and improvement in transportation; the increase of co-operation among the small growers or farmers; the ever-increasing number of valuable fruits and crops which can be profitably raised on these citrus lands—all these and many more factors and reasons must ultimately force up the value of land, and especially of the best of the citrus lands, to a point where only the small holding of from 3 to 4 acres, or even less, can produce a profit on the investment required in its purchase; the small holder being able to produce by his own efforts more on the same area of land than can the farmer with a larger acreage who must hire the major part of the labor he requires.

This analysis, however, will not apply to every community, for many of the more desirable locations will always have a residential value for winter homes and home ranches for the man of wealth or of considerable means, far in excess of their intrinsic agricultural or horticultural worth. And in this connection in favored locations along the foothills, in situations embracing wide views and where living conditions are most inviting, settlements or communities will continue to be built even in greater number than has hitherto been the case.

On what, however, may be classed as the "average" citrus lands the tendency in the near future will be to grow a greater diversity of crops, and the ultimate subdivision of such lands into smaller farms or holdings of from three to four acres, or even less, will result.

The question of raising a wider range of crops in many of our citrus districts is even now of great importance and is receiving much attention at this time, although not, perhaps, from the viewpoint of the smaller holding, but rather as providing more profitable crops for the present owners of some of the least profitable of the citrus orchards.

As pointing to the class of citrus land suitable and to be found in practically all of the citrus fruit growing districts—and in fact in most of the newer districts as well—the following excerpt from a recent speech given by Dr. H. J. Welber, director of the State Citrus Experiment work and station, is both pertinent and timely:

"In speaking of the California citrus industry, inquiry should be directed to the extent to which the industry can safely be extended. Suitable soil and climatic conditions and water are the limiting factors. Doubtless many acres have been and are being planted to citrus fruits that would be more profitable in some other crop. The welfare of the individual and of the community necessitates that planting in improper places should be discouraged. If a citrus grove is unprofitable and does not pay for its upkeep, the sooner it is burned for wood and the proper crop put in its place the better."

We thus have conditions or factors inevitably pointing to a great multiplication of small holdings in the citrus districts of the state, where is to be found land with good soil and ample and assured water rights, well adapted for such subdivision.

The crops available for these lands are many in number, and unquestionably the small farm of the future in the majority of instances will grow great quantities of annual and "small" crops between orchard plantings of deciduous fruits, nuts, olives, etc.; while in other cases use will be made of land climatically adapted to the growth of the tenderer citrus fruits and of other of the semi-tropical and tropical fruits, together with such intercropping.

Upon the extent to which present owners can increase the profits from their orchards—by the production of bigger crops from existing trees, by new plantings or crops, or by intercropping or more intensive farming—depends the ultimate size of the individual irrigated citrus orchard or farm in the irrigated citrus district.

Unvaluable work is being done, by state and federal experts, with a view to increasing the quality and quantity of our citrus fruits; but except in the most favored locations and under the most favorable conditions the future will see smaller farms and smaller orchards; and the land will be worked by the man, capable of producing the most from it, for it is he who can pay the highest price or the largest rental for its use.

This tendency and movement toward more intensive farming may be numbered among the many reasons for making our citrus property possessing good water rights among the most valuable agricultural lands in the world. Their value is bound to increase in the near future, whatever may be their present values; for where else on the surface of the globe can be found land capable of producing such a diversity of products, combined with ready markets and channels of distribution for their disposal.

After Dinner Chats With Walnut Growers

By Dr. J. G. Berneike, Corresponding Secretary of the Orange County Dried Fruit Association.

The question of cover crops has aroused considerable interest of late. Several late issues of the California Cultivator have discussed the question pro and con. Some growers who for the last year have practiced "green manuring" have come to the conclusion that they were not getting proper returns from the expenditure of money involved. Others still hold that both theory and practice are correct. The plowing in of green cover crops is a substitute for the application of stable manure, and, of course, it is intended to restore the fertility of the soil which has been drawn upon by the removal of crops. Every farmer knows by experience that the application of stable manure to his land gives him a larger crop. He knows also that the top soil is changed in a way so as to work more easily and retain moisture better. The object of manuring therefore is to supply an abundance of plant food in available form, and to improve the physical quality of the soil, or to supply humus. We may roughly define humus as the intimate mixture of earth and decaying plant fibre. Without humus the soil becomes dry, hard, and infertile. In the absence of humus even the application of commercial fertilizer will be wasted, because the presence of humus is needed to make this fertilizer available as plant food.

Leguminous plants, such as peas, beans, vetches, clovers, have been especially recommended for cover crops, because it has been discovered that they take up one of the elements of the air, nitrogen, and store it in small tubercles on their roots, and this nitrogen becomes food for the plant that follows, when the leguminous plant undergoes decay after being plowed under. We can supply nitrogen by applying the commercial fertilizers, nitrate of soda, or nitrate of lime, to the soil. But these are rather expensive, and we therefore seem to gain by growing as cover crops those plants which take nitrogen from the air and put it into the soil to become plant food without a big expense to the grower.

It is perhaps not more than ten years ago when California ranchers, especially orange and walnut growers, took hold of growing cover crops, and started out with peas and then settled down to vetches. But some of the formerly most ardent in their advocacy of "green manuring" are now stopping to ask why they do not get all the good they expected. When I have seen growers turn under a cover crop of vetches not more than eight inches high, I have said that such practice is a waste of seed and labor. There is not enough plant fibre there to make humus, nor enough of nitrogen gathered to pay for the labor.

I agree entirely with those who maintain that the cover crop should be as nearly mature as possible, or better, wholly mature, before it is turned back to the soil. Thus only can we obtain the full benefit of a cover crop. There are difficulties in achieving this result, for it takes considerable time from seed to full maturity, and also, it is not so easy to plow under and embody the matured plant with the soil. These difficulties must be overcome.

Let us take a hint from nature. She is constantly making fertile soil. Does she turn under "green" crops? Hardly. The nearest she comes to doing that is by passing the green crop through the digestive tract of plant eating animals. The bulk of the growing vegetation does not return to the soil before full maturity. The leaves drop, the stems wither and fall down; and by the agency of wind, rain, burrowing animals, decay and so forth, all this dead material becomes incorporated with the surface soil, and we have a soil rich in humus and rich in the essentials of plant life, phosphates, potash and nitrates.

I wish to point out to our growers that nature does not confine herself to leguminous plants in the production of fertile soils. She has the greatest possible variety. Her stock in trade is what we are pleased to call weeds. Some of these are legumes, some are grasses, some are herbaceous. She uses them all, and according to the season or the soil uses one more than another. Some will grow better during cold weather, others during warm weather. Some prefer wet to dry, and so on. In the end all contribute their share to the fertility of the soil. Shall we then imitate nature by using weeds as cover crops? Why not? A good big stand of mustard or wild turnip would be far better than a little spindling stand of vetches or peas. These two plants strike a heavy root deeply into the soil, and make a big growth at a time when vetches are at a standstill. Then there is alfalfa (alfalfa), and no better cover crop than bur clover. None of these plants will trouble us during the summer in a cultivated orchard. We can allow enough to go to seed for the next year, and save buying seed.

Shall we abandon the use of vetches, peas, fengreek and other legumes for a cover crop? Not at all. But let us admit that a good crop of weeds plowed under is just as good a cover crop as a crop of the vaunted "leguminous plants," and often will give much better results with less expense.

Besides the legumes we have our cultivated grasses, such as barley, oats, rye, wheat. Any of these make an excellent cover crop, because they make a rapid and heavy growth, can be started early and will mature early, and are easy to plow under. The seed is cheap, too. Of course, the orchard will look better kept, if one of these is used, but it does not follow that a heavy crop of weeds would not actually produce better results.

It is a noticeable fact that growers are going back somewhat on legumes as a cover crop, and some are going back on cover crops altogether. This I believe to be a mistake.

In conclusion I will say that as we all have come to believe in "crop rotation," so have I come to believe in cover crop rotation.

SPLendid RECEPTION

Rev. J. C. Kennedy and Wife
Are Warmly Welcomed at United Presbyterian Church

The United Presbyterian people gave a splendid reception last evening to their new pastor, Rev. J. C. Kennedy, who recently came from Pittsburg to remain with the Santa Ana congregation for the next six months. Pastors and their wives of the different congregations of the city were invited to attend and a number of them responded to the invitation. The church parlors were decorated with feathery mustard fronds and potted plants. About two hundred persons were present to greet the new pastor and his estimable wife. The following program was presided over by S. H. Finley, organ solo, Harry Warner; duet, Mrs. Porter and Elmer Thompson; monologue, Cass, S. Shaw; welcome address for the ministers of Santa Ana, by Rev. Geo. Huser, the United Presbyterian congregation by J. P. Thompson, the missionary society by Miss Joella Gandy; vocal solo, Mrs. Porter, accompanied by Harry Warner; welcome from Ladies' Aid by Mrs. Steele Finley, the Sabbath school by W. H. Morgan, the Christian Endeavor by Will Warren; responses by Mrs. J. C. Kennedy and Rev. J. C. Kennedy; piano duet, Mrs. Porter and Harry Warner.

A reception was held in the church parlors, where the new pastor and his wife were introduced to the members and friends who had met in their honor. Later in the evening the company was ushered to the dining room where refreshments of salad, pickles, sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served. The dining room and tables were beautifully decorated with smilax, poinsettias and potted plants. The ladies of the second alphabetical division had charge of this social affair with Mrs. J. H. Stevenson as chairman of the committee. The evening was very successful, the hours being pleasantly spent and Rev. and Mrs. Kennedy receiving very cordial greetings from the people and pastors of Santa Ana as represented last evening.

LUNCHEON FOR MOTHERS GIVEN BY DAUGHTERS

Twenty-four girls of the advanced cooking class of the Domestic Science department of the Santa Ana city schools, entertained their mothers and friends and class teacher last evening at a four course luncheon planned, prepared and served by themselves.

The Domestic Science room looked very festive, decorated with ferns and smilax. Centerpieces of violets and place cards done in violets by one of the class, decorated the tables. Guests at the feast were the Mesdames Merigold, Trindle, Hickox, Hendrickson, Fippis, Galbraith, Young, Newman, May, Sauermann, Baker, Clem, Whipple, Hedrick, Hendricks, Bruce; the Misses Baxter, Marie Cunningham and Pease. The guests showed their appreciation by giving Miss Clausen, the teacher, and the class a vote of thanks.

Told Teacher Farewell

Miss Mary Andrews was the honoree of a farewell party given for her at the Wellington avenue residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Anderson on Saturday afternoon. Miss Andrews, who teaches the fifth grade in Lincoln school is not leaving but twenty-five of her pupils have been promoted to the sixth grade. They wished to express their affection for the faithful class teacher, so used this social courtesy as a means of doing so. Miss Linda Paul, principal of Lincoln school, was also a guest of honor.

Out of door games amused teachers and pupils alike and singing of well liked school songs with Miss Paul at the piano followed the games. Ice cream, cake, lemonade, candy and popcorn were served as refreshments.

Bereans Are Entertained

The Berean Class of the First Presbyterian Church were delightfully entertained at the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd on North Broadway Tuesday evening.

A bright fire in the living room added to the hearty greetings of host and hostess, made every one feel at home at once and good times commenced from the moment the first guest arrived.

Various games were played, then the boxes brought by the ladies, each containing lunch for two, were auctioned off. The auctioneers, Mr. Stevens and Mr. Darnell, were so successful that a goodly sum was added to the fund for furnishing the new Sunday school room of the class.

Then the guests were invited to bring their boxes and come out doors into the patio, which had been transformed into a beautiful dining room.

Those enjoying the evening were Messrs. and Mesdames Darnell, J. C. Winans, J. C. Kirby, J. R. Goodwin, W. L. Stewart, C. D. Hindley, C. E. Lamme, E. Larson, C. P. Boyer, J. D. Seeley, H. E. Ulrich, Paul Stevens, J. A. Stevenson, G. S. Thacker, Mrs. B. Miller and Mrs. L. R. Langworthy.

At a late hour the guests took their leave, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd many happy years in their new home.

C. E. BIRTHDAY PARTY

One Hundred Young People
Meet in Observance of 33rd
Year of Organization

Celebrating the thirty-third birthday of the Christian Endeavor organization, the local Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian Church last evening held a C. E. birthday party in the Sunday School auditorium. The room was beautifully decorated with geraniums and was crowded with a hundred or more young people of the various Christian Endeavor societies of the city.

Progressive games were played and a brief but delightful program was rendered. The program was opened with a number on an instrument, which the player, Mr. Harry Garstang, pronounced to be "fairly bells." The harmonies produced by the unique instrument so well handled were very sweet. Two much-enjoyed readings by Miss Virgil Potts were given. Miss Lillian Norman delightfully rendered a violin solo, and Mr. Garstang again pleased the company, this time singing a tenor selection.

Adjournment was then made to the dining room, where the tables were adorned with red and green. A valentine idea suggestion was seen in the red hearts scattered over the table and in the red heart design on the place cards, as well as in the arrow shaped slips pinned on each guest and bearing his or her name. Ice cream, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. The crowning feature of the supper was the Christian Endeavor birthday cake which with many lighted candles was borne between the tables and placed before Herbert Rankin, who made a talk on the Christian Endeavor birthday.

Hostess to Her Class

Mrs. Jas. H. Edwards kindly opened her home last evening to her Sunday school class of the First Methodist church, for another happy gathering, although but about twenty were able to be present.

Though nothing suggestive of the "ground hog" was visible in the decorations, considerable "rooting" was necessary during the business session. The business hour was followed by a social hour during the first part of which there was a noticeable depression of spirits because it was the last meeting Miss Johanna Veenhoven, a beloved member of the class, could attend before her departure for the new home at Yucaipa. But after it was discovered that the famous red apple of the Yucaipa could be reached by auto stage or airship, all recovered their spirits, and also their appetites sufficiently, partake heartily of delicious home-made candy in different varieties served by the "C's" and "D's" of the class at the close of the happy evening.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Candy Shop"

"The Candy Shop," an uproariously funny and lighthearted musical confection in two acts, is at the Grand tonight, Tuesday, and those who have had the good fortune to witness a performance of the play at either the new Gaiety Theatre in San Francisco last fall or more recently at the new Morocco Theatre in Los Angeles, unhesitatingly concede that local theatre goers are destined to be entertained shortly by what has been styled in stage parlance, a "knockout hit."

The scene and action of the first act of "The Candy Shop" is laid in New York City and revolves around a series of incidents, happenings and ludicrous situations that transpire in a metropolitan candy store. What little plot there is to the play tells of the courtship of one of the candy shop girls by the son of the proprietor who is sternly opposed to the suit. In the second and last act, the scene shifts to Dreamland Park in Coney Island and finally there is a concluding scene in a Coney cabaret resort. A lot of ludicrously comical situations and pieces of stage "business" succeed each other all through the piece, and while at no time does any of the entertainment reach close to the risqué stage, it is all a long ways from being slow or dull. Several catchy and tuneful song numbers are interspersed throughout the play and in the cabaret finale, each of the principals are afforded an opportunity to introduce a singing or dancing specialty. The crowning triumph of these, of course, is the very clever burlesque of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt by those two inimitable travesty stars, William Rock and Maude Fulton. The latter gives a wonderfully exact imitation of the celebrated French actress, even to the minutest peculiarity of mannerism and of voice-tone and enunciation. The Anderson Gaiety Company of San Francisco, under whose management "The Candy Shop" is being toured, gives the positive assurance that the local engagement here will be played by the original company that scored such a history-making hit recently in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

CHAIRMAN CLARK EXPLAINS THE NEW EXPRESS TARIFF

Interstate Commerce Commission Spent
Four Years in Probing Affairs of Express Companies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The most sweeping reduction in express rates ever inaugurated went into effect this week. Before issuing the new rates the Interstate Commerce Commission spent nearly four years in investigating the express business, and Chairman Edgar E. Clark, head of the commission, today consented to give the United Press an interview in which he described the events which culminated in the order which has just become effective.

"It was on June 8, 1912," said Chairman Clark, "that the commission, through Commissioner Lane, now secretary of the interior, issued its first report in the investigation which has been conducted into the matter of express rates, practices, accounts and revenues. This investigation was prompted by a large number of complaints against charges, practices and regulations of express companies, and it was perhaps the most exhaustive and searching investigation the commission has ever undertaken."

"Full investigation was had and consideration given to the financial affairs of the express companies, character of their organization, relationships they had with the railroads, the extent and nature of their property, the character of their service, basis of their rate systems, cost of their operation, manner in which their rates were stated, the relation of the service given by the express companies to that given by the railroads in the carriage of freight, the relationship between the rates of the express companies in different sections of the country for the same service, similarities and dissimilarities as between the express service in the United States and similar service in foreign countries, etc.

"Thirteen defendant express companies in 1911 transported more than 300,000,000 packages. They operated over 218,013 miles of steam railroad in the United States, over 18,385 miles of steamship and stage lines, and over 6,665 miles of electric lines. They paid to the rail, steamship and electric lines during that year $69,730,895 and their expenses were something over $64,000,000. The express companies' affairs and interests were interwoven through ownership of each other's stock.

"Aside from the complaints of excessive charges, the complaints then before the commission referred more particularly to double collections of lawful charges, overcharges and undercharges effecting discriminations between shippers arising out of an obscure rate system and ineffective accounting, indirect routing of shipments, etc., etc.

"Briefly, the commission required a sweeping reduction in express charges, a new system of stating rates in tariffs, a new classification, use of prescribed labels for packages to avoid double collection charges, proper provisions for revision of billing so as to insure collection of the lawful charges, routing arrangements which in effect make all of the express companies one and insure routing via the more direct junction points and lines, the establishment of a directory of free delivery limits, the establishment and reduction of insurance charges on shipments exceeding $50 in value and revision of regulations governing the transportation of shipments.

"On the matter of reduction in rates, the express companies naturally made every effort to convince the commission that the reductions proposed were too far-reaching but at the end, while still expressing the view that as a matter of law the reductions were not proper, they announced their acceptance of the rates prescribed by the commission and determination to give them a full and fair trial.

"The new plan necessitated an entire revision of the classifications and tariffs which was a work of much magnitude and which must be carefully done, and in order to provide time in which to do that work, the effective date of the commission's order was postponed to February 1, 1914, upon which date the new system of rates became effective.

"The commission prescribed the lower level of rates with the firm conviction that it afforded the express companies reasonable and just compensation for the service performed and a reasonable return upon the full value of all of the property which they devote to the public service.

"The contracts between the express companies and the railroads provided that the railroads should receive for their part of the service a certain percentage of the gross earnings from the express business.

"In a general way it may be said that one-half of the gross earnings thus went to the railroads.

"In determining the just and reasonable compensation for the express companies the commission did not accept the theory that these contracts between the express companies and the railroads were on a correct or equitable basis."

REPAIRING ROADS IN THE SANTIAGO CANYON

Orange News: The Santiago canyon road, above the county park, which is now impassable for automobiles, will be open, according to Supervisor Struck, within a couple of days.

The recent high water washed the road out in many places, so that it can be traveled only by teams. The supervisor had men working to put it back in shape.

Mr. Struck states that he has never known the water to be so high in the canyon as during the past rain. At the Holtz place in Silverado, it is said that five inches of rain fell between Sunday evening and Monday noon.

The creek was brimming full at the park and washed away about 100 feet of the fence on the north side of the park.

ILLINOIS FARMERS WANT NEW RATES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 3.—With Illinois' new public utilities commission in deciding grain freight rates continue to follow the Interstate Commerce Commission as it did in its rulings on the giving of passes and transportation and the fixing of express rates? This was the question that today agitated farmers and grain shippers throughout Illinois when their representatives came here to plead before the state commission for the present freight tariffs as against a one per cent sliding increase.

Within the first month of its organization the commission adopted to the letter the federal board's classification of persons who may be granted passes or transportation by carrier utilities and accepted the Interstate Commerce Commission's schedule of express tariffs for shipments within the state. What the railroads asked today was that the Interstate Commerce Commission's scale of grain rates be enforced for shipments within Illinois. The railroads began clamoring for the grain freight increase a year ago. From time to time decision was deferred by the old railroad and warehouse commission. When the first hearing was given by the commission, a postponement was allowed until today with the proviso that whatever today's decision, the rates asked should not go into effect until February 23. The contention of the farmers is that the cost of carrying grain has not increased out of ratio to other freight carrying costs and that the additional burden proposed for grain shipments is unjust and discriminatory. They claim that while other states are proposing to increase the grain freight rates only 5 per cent, the Illinois carriers ask an increase of 16 2-3 per cent.

Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT
COMMISSIONER DENIES GUILT
Connell to Have Trial on Feb.
16—Gun Club Man Takes an Appeal

Yesterday M. J. Connell, a member of the State Fish and Game Commission, and one of the most prominent fish and game men in the state, was arraigned before Justice Cox, and pleaded not guilty to a charge of having killed over the limit of ducks on the San Joaquin Gun Club preserves on February 8, 1913. Connell's trial was set for February 16, at 1:30 o'clock. He will be defended by Attorney H. J. Porgy.

Justice Cox quizzed the commissioner concerning two warrants that were mailed to the commission's office in Los Angeles last February. One was for Albert H. Hayes, and the other for R. M. Burdick, members of the San Joaquin Gun Club, of which Connell was then a member. The warrants were never served and the report received here was that they were lost. New warrants were issued and finally Constable Jackson located Hayes and arrested him. As yet Burdick has not been arrested.

Connell said the justice that his office could not find the warrants and that if a Santa Ana office with a warrant for Burdick would go to the commission's office and would be given in locating Burdick.

Hayes Appeals.
Hayes was tried and found guilty of killing over the limit of ducks. He paid a fine of $200. Today an appeal from that judgment was taken, and the case set to the superior court. It was during Hayes' trial that Meritt, keeper at the gun club, made the statement that Connell had frequently killed over the limit, and when Deputy District Attorney Koepsel prepared a complaint Meritt swore to it.

On Good Behavior
Elmer Hungerford today pleaded guilty to battery upon Barry McPhee, whom he attacked without provocation, and after a severe lecture Justice Cox allowed him to go on good behavior, suspending sentence for six months. Hungerford is a line-man.

AT THE COURTHOUSE
JUDGMENT BE TO SMITHWICK
Amount of Damages for Kick
by Mule Not Yet Fixed by the Court

Yesterday afternoon Judge Thomas stated in court that he would give judgment in favor of Sid Smithwick and against B. W. and W. C. Jerome in the action brought by Smithwick for damages as the result of a kick by a mule. The judge stated that he would allow $203.50, the amount asked for physician's and hospital's services. At the request of the litigants' attorneys the fixing of the amount of damages was withheld for two days, the judge being desirous of looking up amounts shown in California decisions to have been allowed in this state in similar cases.

Smithwick sued for $200 damages, with the doctor's and hospital's bills in addition. The evidence showed that while Smithwick was working for Jerome Bros. on their ranch at Myford he was kicked by a mule, and one of his legs was broken. The defense was conducted by Attorneys Kemp, Mitchell and Silberberg of Los Angeles representing the Massachusetts Indemnity and Bonding Co., in which company Jerome Bros. had a policy covering injuries to employees. Williams & Rutan represented Smithwick.

Answer Filed
Today an answer was filed by Attorney A. R. Holston of Los Angeles for the defendants in the foreclosure suit brought by L. A. McConnell against Alta and Henry Kennedy of Orange. The answer alleges that $750, the amount asked by the plaintiff as attorney's fees, is too much, and that $150 is sufficient.

Foreclosure Case
S. M. Cradick of Orange has brought suit to foreclose a second mortgage of $2500 on property west of the river. The defendants include Jerome Seymour, who signed the note, and J. Q. Johnson, who holds a first mortgage of $5400. L. M. Hartwick and Kerch & Davis are attorneys for the plaintiff.

"A. No. 1," KING OF TRAMPS, WEDS
ERIE, Pa., Feb. 3.—"A. No. 1," the King of Tramps, whose real name is George Livingston, was to be married here today to Miss Mary Trohoski. However, they astonished the friends gathering for the ceremony by announcing that they were wedded a week ago to avoid any fuss. Livingston, who is known all over the world by his designation, "A. No. 1," has beat the railroads and steamship companies out of thousands of dollars in fares. He claims he has traveled more extensively than any other two people in the world, and shows credentials in the form of autographs and letters which he says he has personally secured, that could have been secured only by travel of hundreds of thousands of miles. Livingston says his trips have covered "a million miles." He has been located in Erie for the past four months. "A. No. 1" today refused to say whether he has given up his life of travel for all time.

LYNCH ARGUED FOR
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—President Lynch of the Chamber of Commerce put up strong arguments yesterday before federal secretaries McAdoo and Houston in their hearing as to the location of a regional bank under the new currency law. "San Francisco is equidistant from British Columbia and Mexico," said Lynch, "and because of its ideal location dominates all the intervening territory with its five million inhabitants. California has half of this population, with the San Francisco bay region having one-fifth."

He then produced statistics showing San Francisco's export trade last year was $101,000,000 against Puget Sound's $62,000,000. He declared that practically every coastwise steamer is operated from the Golden Gate and also declared that San Francisco is one of three American cities where the insurance business is handled by brokers instead of agents. He said that last year 98 per cent of the coast insurance premiums were paid through San Francisco.

"Harlem Hermit," Claiming $300,000,000 of New York Property, Lives in Tent in Cold Winter

M. M. Melenaer, the "Harlem Hermit," claims title to New York city property worth $300,000,000, and he lives in a tent in the north part of Manhattan Island to hold his title to it, he says. In fact, his claim is to about one-fourth of the island, consisting largely of the northern portion of it, which is now covered with costly residences and immense apartment houses. Melenaer claims the property under the will of his grandfather made in 1812. He has begun a legal fight on many wealthy property owners. In order to make good his legal claim he has set up a home on the property, and during all the cold of the winter he remained in his tent.

PERMIT IS ISSUED FOR SMITH BUILDING

Today a building permit was issued for the new $10,000 building being erected at the northeast corner of Third and Main streets. The permit was issued to Charles F. Smith of Tustin, with E. W. Smith of Santa Ana as contractor. The structure will be one-story and contain three store rooms. One of these will be occupied by the Farmers & Merchants National Bank during the course of construction of the five-story bank building.

STRAW HAT DAY.
SAN DIEGO, Feb. 3.—San Diego's first "Straw Hat Day," the most unique celebration of its kind ever held in the United States, was held here yesterday amid the acclamation of 50,000 spectators who viewed the parade in a sun glowing with warmth.

Ten thousand marchers participated in the parade, which was three miles in length. The day dawned with a light mist sweeping in from the ocean and covering the city, but this did not stop loyal San Diegans from donning their straw hats. By eight o'clock, when the fog lifted and the warm rays of the golden sun flooded the city, there were more straw hats on the business streets than felt ones.

White duck trousers were another feature of the day, while here and there could be seen women in sumery apparel.

The parade itself was a wondrous spectacle. The Rotary Club had a revolving hat twenty feet in diameter, the Ad Club following with an enormous straw hat mounted on a float, drawn by two horses.

School children in summer apparel were in line. Women in summer gowns were in automobiles massed with flowers. It was the hottest February 2 in twenty years, according to the record of the United States weather bureau, and there was the highest percentage of sunshine ever recorded.

The plant was built at a cost of $55,000, and local people were not asked to assist in financing it until the accident happened.
